POLICE INVESTIGATION.

The Lexow Committee Again at Work in New York.

EXAMINING THE OFFICIALS NOW.

Attorney Goff Calls the Chief Clerk of the Police Headquarters and Ex-Police Commissioner MacLean, Who Says the Civil Service Law Is a Hindrance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The Lexow committee resumed its investigations into the police department yesterday, after a two weeks' vacation, taken to allow the members of the committee to attend the state convention of the Republican and Democratic parties. It is evident that matters are rapidly reaching a climax. The beginning of the end apparently is in sight.

Commencing with the criminals, the very worst men and women in New York city as witnesses, Mr. Goff, the attorney who has been conducting the investigation, has been steadily moving upward in the scale of humanity. The testimony of ex-officers and former policemen having been taken just before adjournment the prosecution took another step nearer the throne yesterday, when Major William H. Kip, chief clerk at the police headquarters, was called as the first witness of the day. His testimony referred largely to matter appearing in the records, and was to some extent of a routine nature.

Then came ex-Police Commissioner Charles F MacLean. He thought the power exercised by the police courts over the police department was in the main injurious. He believed that a single head to the department would eventually be an improvement. The civil service law had proved of little benefit to the department, because so many of the inspectors were incompetent. He could recall only one instance in which a formal investigation was made by the board touching the sale of captaincies. The witness gave it out as his opinion that the present system, with its bad application to the civil service laws, offered greater opportunities for purchasing a place on the police force than under the old system.

There was an unusually large attendance of attorneys and ministers when the session began. The interest in the proceedings continues to [illegible]. Among the witnesses called was Corporation Counsel Clarke. He was asked why he had designated Mr. Wellman to appear as special counsel to the police board during the recent hearing of charges against officers, since Mr. Wellman was already [illegible] attorney. Mr Clarke said he selected Mr Wellman because he was familiar with criminal law, and that the appointment was [illegible]

A Matrimonial Sensation.

OLEAN, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The announcement of the marriage of William L. Crout, one of the most prominent of the New Home Sewing Machine workers, to Miss Ellen Reynolds of Brockton, Mass., has created a big stir. A few months ago his first wife filed a libel for divorce and attached her husband's property for $100,000. This was almost immediately followed by the statement that Mr Crout had become a legal resident of Arizona, and had been granted a divorce there. Mrs. Crout has paid no attention to the Arizona bill and has continued to receive $2,000 a year from Mr. Crout.

Lottery Headquarters Raided.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 2.—The police yesterday afternoon made a raid which resulted in the arrest of four men and one woman, and the capture of thousands of lottery tickets. Chief of Police Murphy, accompanied by a squad of detectives, swooped down on the office of the Hamilton Printing and Engraving company and arrested J. W. Hamilton, the proprietor, and the entire force of employes. Several presses were in full blast turning out lottery tickets and circulars. Several thousand circulars captured give a list of the winning numbers at the next drawing.

Nothing Strange.

Intelligent people, who realize the important part the blood holds in keeping the body in a normal condition, find nothing strange in the number of diseases Hood's Sarsaparilla is able to cure. So many troubles results from impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla vitalizes the blood.

Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture.

"My baby is subject to severe attacks of diarrhœa. During the last sickness, Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture was freely given and an immediate cure resulted. It would have required a dozen visits of a physician as on former occasions. I believe Dr. Hand's Remedies would have saved the life of the child I lost, had they been within my reach at the time of its sickness." Mrs. F. H. Bennett, 722 New street, Camden, N. J. ARIZONA TRAIN ROBBERS.

Two Men and a Boy Capture $20,000. One Robber Captured.

PHŒNIX, Ariz., Oct. 2.—An east bound Southern Pacific train was held up one and a half miles east of Maricopa by three persons. One of the robbers rode on the blind baggage car out of Maricopa, while the other two flagged the train. It is said the robbers secured $20,000 in gold.

Two of the bandits were masked, and the third, who was a mere boy, was not. The robber who previously climbed upon the train captured the head brakeman and compelled him to turn on the air brakes and stop the train. The other bandit covered the engineer, who, with the brakeman, was compelled to go back to the express car to induce the messenger to open the box. The boy was then shoved into the car. While he was searching for express treasures the two bandits guarded each side of the train.

When the boy came from the car the trainmen, who were under the bandits' guns, were compelled to march with the bandits a short distance into the bushes. There the rebels released their prisoners, and mounting their horses, rode away. The penalty for robbing trains in Arizona is death.

A posse, led by Sheriff Murphy, of Maricopa, found the trail of the robbers at the point where they had crossed the Gila river, seven miles east of Phœnix. Soon afterward they came upon a camp which the robbers had hastily abandoned. There they found three Winchester rifles and three horses. Not long after this they overhauled one of the bandits, whom they called upon to throw up his hands. He turned upon the officers and fired, but a charge of buck-shot from the sheriff's gun brought him to the ground. The prisoner, whose name is Frank Armour, was brought here, and it is believed he will recover. On Armour's person was found one of the watches taken from a street car man who was held up here a week ago.

West Wins Every Point.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—By the decision of the United States court of appeals, handed down yesterday by Judge Woods, James J. West wins every point in the suit brought against him by H. J. Huiskamp and others to settle the question of ownership of 5,001 shares of stock in the Chicago Times company, and valuable property belonging to the Story estate. The decision of Judge Blodgett in the circuit court is reversed and the case is ordered to be referred to a master for adjudication.

The charge of shot entered his mouth and passed through the top of his head. His brother was with him at the time of the mishap. Max Caundley, aged 16 years, was run over by the Reading "cannon ball" express last evening while trying to jump on. One leg was cut off, the other was mangled. He cannot recover.

New York and New Jersey Bridge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—There is nothing further to be done in the matter of the New York and New Jersey bridge bill until the company does something for the same with the secretary of war. The secretary of war is called on to either approve or disapprove the report of the board of engineers, which was recently made. This report has been referred to Lamont, and will remain in the war department to be considered when a new plan is presented.

Fugitive Bank President Captured.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 2.—T. R. Hazzard, president of the Bank of Sedgewick City, who, it is charged, with others, defrauded J. W. Ramsey, of Springfield, Ills., out of $[illegible] by forged deeds of real estate here, was arrested on Sunday in Plymouth, N. H., and officers have started to bring him back. Two of those charged with being accomplices of Hazzard have been sent to the penitentiary, but Hazzard escaped to Canada at the time.

Dutch Troops Ambushed.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 2.—A telegram received from Batavia states that a detachment of Dutch troops were led into ambush set for them by Balinese rebels on the Island of Lombock. A captain and lieutenant were killed and ten men were wounded. The troops were led into the ambush by the treachery of natives, who were acting for the Dutch in the capacity of spies.

Mistaken for a Horse Thief and Shot.

SARATOGA, Oct. 2.—Myron L. Green, a milk peddler, while driving through an obscure part of the town of Greenfield before daylight, was mistaken by detectives for Burt Wells, an alleged horse thief and shot. He will probably recover. He had been ordered to halt, but believing the command was from footpads started to drive off furiously when he was shot.

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATION

Germany Objects to the Working of the New Sugar Tariff

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The German government, through its ambassador, Baron von Saurma Jeltsch, has made a strong protest to the secretary of state against that clause of the act which imposes an additional duty of one-tenth of a cent per pound on sugars imported from those governments which pay an export bounty on the article to their producers. It is held by the German government that this feature of the new tariff act is more oppressive in its action against the sugar producers of that country than any other, and violates the spirit of the treaty arrangements between the two governments, particularly in view of the concession by which the embargo against American pork, for a time enforced by Germany, was raised.

Anarchist Outrage Prevented.

MARSEILLES, Oct. 2.—Acting upon information received from an Italian police spy, the authorities of this city yesterday made some important arrests of anarchists. The spy, it appears discovered a plot, hatched by fourteen anarchists, to blow up the Italian consulate in this city. Consequently a detachment of police was detailed to surround a certain house, and shortly before daybreak eight anarchists were arrested. Upon searching the house the police found a number of compromising documents, showing that this band of anarchists was in communication with similar bodies of anarchists in Genoa and London. Other arrests are imminent.

The Florida Election.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 2.—Florida today elects a justice of the supreme court. Sixteen members of the senate, the entire house of representatives and all county officers are also to be elected save the sheriff. Hon Benjamin A. Liddon, the Democratic nominee for the supreme bench, has no opposition. The Populists have put out candidates in many counties, but will make a show only in two or three. The indications are that the next legislature will be overwhelmingly in favor of the establishment of a railroad commission.

Death of a Gallant War Hero.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 2.—The death of John Jackson at the house of correction is reported. Jackson is famous for having performed one of the most heroic actions of the civil war. The progress of the union fleet up the Savannah river was impeded by a torpedo placed in a very narrow channel and communicating with the shore by a wire. Jackson swam to the torpedo and took off the can rendering it harmless. He was given a medal for the gallant conduct. Drink was his ruin.

Socialists Attack the Police.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 2.—The socialists of this city yesterday attempted to hold an anti-military demonstration. They were ordered to disperse by the police, but no attention was paid to the order. The police then used force to enforce their order, with the result that a free fight occurred, during which several of the riotous socialists were injured. A number of the ringleaders were arrested.

Many casualties are reported to have occurred, but no details have been received. There was a heavy snow fall in the vicinity of Aussee, Upper Austria, covering the Enns valley.

THE PING YANG BATTLE

A Denial of the Reported Great Slaughter of Chinamen.

THEIR LOSS WAS THREE THOUSAND

This Includes Both Killed and Wounded. China's Army in a Desperate Condition. Food and Ammunition Paid For Being Stolen Right and Left.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Times publishes a letter from Sir Halliday Macartney, counsellor of the Chinese embassy here, asking whether it is not strange that the startling telegram received in London respecting the Chinese disaster at Ping Yang is still without confirmation. Sir Halliday then recapitulates the contents of the telegram in question, and of one received on the day following stating that 14,500 Chinese prisoners had actually paraded in Ping Yang, and giving other details of the capture of the Chinese army. He declares, after a careful inquiry at every chancellery in Europe, that he can find no independent evidence to support these dispatches.

The Chinese at Ping Yang, he says, suffered defeat, not disaster. There may have been a Worth, but there was no Sedan. There were only 12,000 troops at Ping Yang. The killed and wounded numbered only 2,500. The remaining 9,500, commanded by General Falsley, stated to have been captured by the Japanese, effected a retreat. Sir Halliday concludes with the statement that his purpose in writing the letter is to reduce the Japanese victory at Ping Yang to its just proportions.

The dispatches which Sir Halliday Macartney takes exception to stated that three Japanese columns had captured the town of Ping Yang, Corea, after defeating an army of 20,000 Chinese troops, among them being a number of Li Hung Chang's European drilled troops, who were cut down to a man in their defense of the entrenchments. It was said that the Chinese loss was over 17,000 killed, wounded and captured. The Japanese minister at Washington on Sept. 18 received advices from his government confirming the news. The Chinese admitted the defeat of their army, but denied that Ping Yang had been captured.

The Times publishes dispatches from Shanghai stating that it is reported that 5,500 Japanese troops have been landed on the Shang Tung coast, between the Yalu river and Talienwan.

Li Hung Chang is vigorously supported by the dowager empress. It was at the suggestion of Li Hung Chang that the Prince Kung, the emperor's uncle, who had been in disgrace for some time, was recalled to the presidency of Tsung Li Yamen, with full control of Chinese foreign affairs.

The Chinese war council continues to sit, but the disorganization is appalling. The corruption in the commissariat passes belief. There is no clothing for the troops, food is scanty and weapons and war munitions bought and paid for can neither be found nor traced. The great Chinese camp between Tien Tsin and Taku is filled with raw levies, and disorder is rampant, although executions are frequent. The men are without rules. Foreigners do not venture in the camp unless they are amply guarded. Most of the Europeans have gone to the coast towns for protection. Many Chinese merchants have also migrated to the coast towns, feeling that they will be more secure with the foreigners.

Remnants of the Chinese force from Ping Yang have reached Moukden. They lost everything, and tell doleful stories of the fight.

A large deputation of leading merchants, headed by the city magistrate of Tientsin, waited on Colonel Von Hannekin, the German officer who was on board the transport Kow Shing when she was sunk by the Japanese warship, and who afterwards took part with the Chinese in the naval battle of Yalu.

An imperial edict has been issued appointing General Sung, formerly commander at Port Arthur, generalissimo of the Pei Yang army corps, now in Manchuria, and chief over the Manchu Levies, except the Kirin division, which is under the command of a Tartar general. The other generals are commanded to obey General Sung under pain of death.

The Times publishes letters from Yokohama, bearing date of Aug. 24, stating Japan is preparing to increase her army in Corea to 100,000 men. The intentions of the government as proclaimed by the native press, are to crush the Chinese army in Corea and march on Pekin, where a claim for a large indemnity will be made, and the cession of the Island of Formosa demanded. The Japanese believe that they will be in a position to dictate terms to China before the end of the year, and also that they will possess the board of influence at Moukden belonging to the Chinese [illegible] finally.

THE MOTHER WON HER CASE.

The Romantic Story Revealed by a Supreme Court Decision.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 2.—A case decided by the supreme court yesterday involves an interesting story. About twenty-one years ago Mrs. Annie Enders surrendered the custody of her little boy to his grandfather until he should reach majority, the grandfather agreeing to pay her $20,000 as a consideration. On the death of the grandfather the estate refused to pay the money, and the mother brought suit to recover it. The son had in the meantime grown to manhood, and being administrator of his grandfather's estate, was made defendant in his mother's suit. Judge Simonton decided against Mrs. Enders on the ground that the contract was against public policy, but the supreme court reverses him, and the administrator will have to pay his mother $20,000 as consideration for his own transfer when a babe.

Ten Injured in a Wreck.

SUNBURY, Pa., Oct. 2.—Ten persons were injured in a passenger wreck between Pennsylvania trains from Hazleton and Shamokin yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred at a track crossing in the yard above the Pennsylvania station here. The Shamokin train was crossing over the main passenger track when the Hazleton train dashed into it. The Shamokin coach was struck in the center of its side by the Hazleton engine, thrown from the trucks and overturned. The seats were torn up and the entire side of the car was ripped open. All the occupants were thrown in a heap of wreckage and received bruises and cuts about the head and body. None of the injuries will result seriously.

Two Sailors Washed Overboard.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2.—The Cromwell line steamship Knickerbocker arrived from New York badly battered and reporting the loss of two men. The Knickerbocker left New York last Saturday evening in command of Captain Halsey, and with about sixty passengers. In the midst of the big blow the mainmast was carried away, and while the men were bravely battling to clear away the wreck a mountainous wave washed over the deck, carrying off Second Mate O'Neill and Seaman Hansen. No effort could be made to rescue them. The passengers were all kept below during the storm.

The thirty men were rescued by boats from the Caucase, landed at New Castle, and later went to Philadelphia. Everything was lost, the officers and crew only saving the clothes on their backs. The Allegheny is valued at $200,000.

JENKINS OVERRULED.

The Right of Workmen to Strike Undoubted.

THE JUDGE EXCEEDED HIS POWERS

The Section Which Prohibits Men from "Conspiring to Quit with the Intent of Crippling the Property in Their Custody" Still Stands as the Law.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—In a long decision read by Justice Harlan, and prepared by him, the United States circuit court of appeals reversed in part the famous decision of Judge Jenkins in the case of P. M. Arthur and others against the Northern Pacific railroad, in which Judge Jenkins decided that men had no right to combine for a strike under certain conditions. Although the case is reversed in part, and the cause remanded with directions to strike out certain portions of Judge Jenkin's opinion, the effect of the decision is to prevent all strikes unless they be absolutely peaceable.

The court said that Judge Jenkins had exceeded his powers when he enjoined the employes of the receivers of the Northern Pacific railroad company from quitting the service of said receivers, with or without notice, so as to cripple the property or prevent the operation of said road. It held, however, that the section should stand in which the men were prohibited "from combining and conspiring to quit, with or without notice, the service of said receivers with the object and intent of crippling the property in their custody, or embarrassing the operation of said railroad."

The decision was considered by the lawyers who packed the court room as one of the most important opinions delivered in the United States in a decade. It defines the status before the law of labor organizations in their conduct of strikes, and affirms the powers of courts of equity to interfere by injunction when there is reason to believe that the law will be violated. It holds that men may withdraw in a body from the service of an employer, using, however, neither force, threats, persecution nor intimidation toward employes who do not join them, nor must they use any "device to molest, hinder, alarm or interfere with others who desire to take their places."

Justice Harlan, of the supreme court, delivered the opinion. Sitting with him were Judges Woods, Bunn, Grosscup and [illegible]. The last named sat with his eyes fixed upon Harlan as the latter read the opinion reviewing the circuit judge's action. Judge Jenkins appeared undisturbed by the opinion.

The audience which listened to the reading of the opinion was a most distinguished one. Ex-President Harrison and his partner, Mr Elam, sat side by side, well up toward the bench. After disposing of cases in which the findings of the court were merely announced by Judges Woods and Jenkins, Justice Harlan began the reading of the case of P. M. Arthur et al., intervenors, against Thomas M Oakes, Henry C. Payne and Henry C Rouse, receivers of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, as this celebrated case is known on the docket.

Dollars or Kicks

for women, according to whether they do, or don't do, their washing in a sensible way. If they use Pearline, it means good, hard dollars saved. Pearline is economy. All that ruinous rubbing that makes you buy linens and flannels twice as often as you need to, is spared, to say nothing of your time and labor.

See the troubles that women have to endure with other ways of washing. There's that hard, wearing-out rub, rub, rub, or the danger of ruining things with acids if you try to make it easy. Washing with Pearline is absolutely safe.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 418 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and make secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow know that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

WILL IT COME TO PASS

That the Navies of the United States and of Great Britain Will Combine?

The United States resembles Great Britain in not being obliged to maintain a disproportionately large standing army. It resembles it also in having a great number of sons who have a peculiar aptitude for the sea life. It is therefore in the utilization of sea power in its various aspects that the two countries may best co-operate and assist one another in the future.

If they were to come, as they surely will come, to an understanding to employ their combined naval forces for the preservation of general peace and for the forwarding of the common interests, few countries, no matter how belligerently inclined, would care to defy the alliance even now, and none would dare to question its will after it had rearranged its forces in frank recognition of all its responsibilities. It is not merely that the combined navies would be strong.

Far more weighty are the considerations that the British empire and the United States share between them nearly all the work of providing other countries with the food, raw material and manufactures which those countries cannot provide at home, and of carrying the ocean borne trade of the world. The interests of your ever growing commerce require the maintenance, if not of peace, at least of open ports everywhere. Why should not your combined navies declare, "We refuse henceforth to acknowledge the right of any civilized power to close her ports or the ports of another power by blockade or otherwise?" Surely that would sound the knell of war.—Fortnightly Review.

Philadelphia's Only Live Democrat.

Richard Vaux is decidedly the most picturesque figure of vigorous old age now left in Philadelphia and always excites a lively interest in the passersby on his regular walks from the railroad station to his down town office, for he never rides in carriages or street cars. Recently an old time acquaintance met him on the street with congratulations upon his hearty appearance and remarked that he was glad to see him so full of life. "Life, life!" exclaimed Vaux, raising his arm toward the old United States bank building. "Why, don't you know I am the only living Democrat left in Philadelphia? All the others are dead, dead!" And he resumed his walk thoughtfully westward.—Philadelphia Letter.

SENATOR HILL'S BUGLE CALL.

His Great Speech at the Saratoga Convention.

For Governor—DAVID B. HILL.
For Lieutenant Governor—DANIEL N. LOCKWOOD.
For Justice of the Court of Appeals—WILLIAM J. GAYNOR.

SENATOR HILL'S SPEECH.

The unterrified Democracy of the Empire State assembles here today, undismayed at the premature boasts and assumed confidence of our adversaries. We are not unaccustomed to their annual and moss covered game of political bluff, although renewed this year with extraordinary vehemence and unblushing effrontery. If vain boastings alone could bring victory, their battle is indeed won before it is actually commenced, but we beg to remind them that there has not been a campaign in this state during the past 12 years when they did not assume in August and September that they had carried it, when in truth and in fact during that whole period, with a single exception, victory has perched upon our banners on the first Tuesday of November in each year. We win our victories on election days and not by exuberant braggadocio in convention halls.

The unexpected victory of our opponents last fall has turned their heads and rendered them arrogant and opinionated. They fail to recall the fact that the total vote polled was nearly 300,000 short of the full vote of the state, a victory which they themselves did not anticipate, and which surprised their astute leader, who the next day after election humorously attributed it to Divine providence and not to Republican strength. With a united Democracy and a full vote New York is still a Democratic state, and if we are true to ourselves will this year resume her place in the Democratic column. Our opponents, by the vigorous beating of bogus political tom toms and the insistence upon petty and misleading local issues, seek to divert the public attention from the unenviable record which they made during their recent four years' control of the federal government.

The people, however, have not forgotten the fact that it was a Republican administration which, in that ill fated year of 1890, saddled the country with unwise and vicious legislation which has since crippled its prosperity, endangered its finances and disgraced its public councils. The people remember that the Sherman silver purchase law was the product of Republican statesmanship against the enactment of which every Democrat in congress voted—a monstrous draught with injury to the business interests of the country, based upon no just or sound principle of finance, converting a constitutional money metal into a commodity, hastening us to a single rather than bimetallic standard and weakening our national credit at home and abroad.

It should be borne in mind that the financial panic of 1893 was Republican—Republican in its inception, continuance and disastrous effects—a situation largely induced by the results then existing and impending of that Republican legislation which a Democratic administration had not lot or parcel in enacting, sanctioning or condoning, but which it only unfortunately inherited from its predecessors. The people recollect that it was under a national Democratic administration that the Sherman law was repealed, not as promptly as some of us desired, it is true, but nevertheless unconditionally repealed within eight months after our advent to power.

We promised the people in our Chicago platform that this statute, which was eating out the vitals of our financial body politic, should not be permitted to endure, and the promise was redeemed, despite the adverse predictions of our adversaries. We also declared in favor of the repeal of that last relic of post bellum partisan legislation known as the federal election laws, which invaded state rights, menaced the liberties of the citizen, multiplied federal officials, involved the expenditure of millions of money, continued sectional animosities and were as ill conceived, unnecessary and impotent for the prevention of fraudulent practices and the promotion of pure elections as they were vexatious and offensive in their enforcement.

I point you to the fact that the Democratic party, although intrenched for four years with the distribution of all the official patronage incident to the execution of these powerful laws, yet with patriotic self sacrifice, deliberately setting aside all the power, influence and patronage involved therein, subordinating temporary selfish interests to the public good, wiped these odious laws from the statute books within the first year of our administration, and at the ensuing congressional elections the spectacle will be witnessed for the first time in 24 years of state elections, conducted as they of right ought to be, without federal interference, dictation or intimidation, without federal supervisors, marshals or other obnoxious federal agents or instrumentalities, but with state officers selected or chosen by the people themselves according to state laws and usages, an exemplification of the principle of home rule in states and a vindication of the doctrine of the sovereignty of the states as it was recognized by our fathers from the foundation of our government until that evil day in the sixties when the Republicans, although a minority party, owing to our own divisions, accidentally obtained control of the country.

We rejoice that, with Democratic national ascendancy, the country consistently returns to the simple methods, the sound principles and the correct administration of public office which characterized the earlier and better days of the republic.

The enactment of the McKinley tariff law was the culminating atrocity of Republican recklessness in legislation, a measure so extreme, so selfish, so unreasonable, that I hazard nothing in asserting that conservative and fair minded Republicans everywhere regretted the party exigencies which seemed to demand its passage. It was the very personification of protectionism run mad. Throwing off all disguises, it was the inauguration of a huge scheme of governmental partnership with private business interests. Public considerations were lost sight of or subordinated to the promotion of individual aggrandizement. It was a fit exemplification of the vicious theories which underlie the modern doctrine of protection "for protection's sake alone," as expounded by our opponents, and well illustrated the dangerous tendencies of governmental paternalism.

The reaction which soon followed in the elections of 1890 and was reiterated in 1892 was the natural and legitimate expression of the popular indignation at the party which had basely surrendered to the mercenaries within its own ranks and had bartered away the public good for selfish greed. The right of taxation, which is only justified for the purpose of revenue, was improperly invoked to promote the interests of business favoritism, and the grand old doctrine cherished by our fathers that the legislation of the country should be framed so as to subserve the greatest good for the greatest number was wholly ignored, spurned and repudiated.

We promised the people that, if intrusted with power, this vicious, un-American and objectionable law should be repealed, and we rejoice today in the fulfillment of that pledge. The McKinley law has "gone where the woodbine twineth," gone to stay, never to be re-enacted again by any political party. It is true that there was a vexatious and unfortunate delay, which we regretted, occasioned in part by the antiquated rules of the senate, which tolerated unlimited debate—rules which we did not frame, but which we inherited, and which, by reason of our slender majority, we seemed unable to change, but which, I trust, in the near future will be abrogated—but the fact should be remembered that the record shows that we occupied less time by some months in repealing the law than our opponents took in enacting it in 1890.

The depression or disturbance in business which necessarily accompanies any general tariff revision was of course to be regretted, but I call the attention of the country to the fact, not generally understood, that, no matter which political party had won in 1892, there would have been a tariff revision—necessarily and inevitably so—because the McKinley law had broken down, had collapsed and had proved utterly inadequate to meet the necessities of the government and to furnish its required revenues.

The McKinley tariff duties had been placed so high as to be largely prohibitory in their effect, and the necessary revenues were not forthcoming, and upon the advent of the present national administration to power we were confronted with a virtually bankrupt treasury, and the deficit was daily increasing. During the last year of President Harrison's administration the treasury was constantly embarrassed, as every financier well knows. To use a phrase of the street, it was shinning along from day to day because of the utter failure of the McKinley bill to produce the estimated revenues, emphasizing the fact that the law was not only vicious and selfish in its designs and results, but was, more over, a miserable exhibition of incompetent statesmanship.

When a Democratic administration, after four years' rule, retired in March, 1889, it left to its Republican successor an ample surplus and a reasonably prosperous country. But when that Democratic administration returned to power again in 1893 it found that the ship of state had almost been stranded or scuttled through Republican misrule, its treasury bankrupt, its revenues dissipated, its credit injured, its flag dishonored, its good name sullied and drifting rapidly toward the rocks of an impending panic.

Never did a political party assume the responsibilities of government under greater embarrassments than did the Democratic party in March, 1893. Under such unfavorable and adverse circumstances, with a slender majority in the senate, with an unwieldy majority in the house, with timidity to contend with on one hand and radicalism on the other, with a country impatient for prompt action, with somewhat divided counsels among ourselves, it is not to be wondered at that the measure of revision which was finally passed by the Democratic majority and which is now submitted to the judgment of the country does not in all respects meet the public expectations.

Without retracting a word which I uttered in the senate in criticism of the measure while engaged in the effort to perfect it and render it more acceptable, now that it has been passed and permitted by the president to become a law it must be considered as a whole—treated largely as a party measure and contrasted with the McKinley law whose place it assumes on the statute books. Uninfluenced by any personal disappointments or any pride of opinion, I may be permitted to speak of the measure as it is—nothing extenuate nor set down aught in malice.

Of its strictly tariff features it may truthfully be urged that it is a vast improvement over the McKinley law and will clearly demonstrate its superiority as time rolls on and the business interests of the country shall adjust themselves to its provisions. It is true, it does not embody the full measure of tariff reform which many of us desired and the country anticipated, but nevertheless it is safe, moderate, reasonable. It is better than the McKinley tariff, because it will not create a deficiency in the revenues of the government. Neither will it provide for an enormous and dangerous surplus. It will not require an issue of government bonds to bolster up its failures of revenue and to prevent business depression.

It recognizes, in part at least, the Democratic doctrine of free raw materials, and in response to an overwhelming public sentiment has appropriately provided for free wool, free lumber and free salt. It has largely increased the free list in other directions. It has reduced the duty on coal and iron nearly 50 per cent. The general average reduction from the McKinley rates is nearly 33½ per cent. The reductions are not deemed unreasonable, extreme nor unjustifiable. They are so fair and moderate that no manufacturer in the country has any excuse whatever for reducing the wages of his employees. If manufacturers assume to do it, they must furnish some other reason or pretense than the present moderate new tariff law.

It may be safely asserted that the new law will not cripple or embarrass a single industry in the land, or throw out of employment a single workingman, or unduly stimulate overproduction on the one hand or exorbitant importations on the other. It will not be prohibitory in its effect nor excessively competitive, but with some important raw materials made free and others freer, with a general moderate reduction along the whole line, business conditions will surely improve, our citizens will be relieved from unnecessary taxation, prosperity will dawn upon us once more, and the general conservative tariff revision of 1893 will become more and more acceptable to the people.

These facts should not be overlooked—that it largely reduces the tax on the necessaries of life, upon the implements of husbandry and the wearing apparel of the citizen and substitutes an additional tax upon liquors to the amount of $20,000,000. If the new tariff bill errs at all, it is in the direction of safety and moderation and not because it is too radical, and while ardent Democrats may criticise its conservatism it does not lie in the mouths of our adversaries to condemn it upon any such grounds. The bill properly strikes a blow at paternalism by abrogating the vicious system of bounties to producers of sugar provided for in the McKinley law. The true American doctrine is that every man's business should stand unaided by governmental favors extended by bounties paid from a common treasury.

The elimination of sugar bounties saves to the American people nearly $15,000,000 annually. If it be said that the new law in a single respect is unduly favorable to one particular trust, my answer is that the old law favored a dozen trusts where this may favor one. But a better, more complete and perfect answer to Republican critics is that the very tariff duty complained of was reduced more than one-half from what was contained in the McKinley law. I speak for this law—unsatisfactory though it may be to me in some respects because of the objections which I urged in the senate, which it is not advisable or necessary to reiterate—the patient consideration for a fair trial, to which in common fairness it is entitled. The country should understand that another general or extensive tariff revision is not contemplated by the Democratic party in the near future.

This determination, however, does not preclude the desirability of redeeming, by the passage of separate bills, whatever pledges we have made in our platform, or otherwise, for free raw materials or the readjustment of any objectionable sugar schedule. Beyond this it is not wise to go much farther at this time unless the unforeseen necessities of the treasury or the changed conditions of the country shall warrant or imperatively demand it.

This is believed to be the true path to pursue and the correct position to assume at this critical juncture of public affairs. Of course much must necessarily be left—properly and safely left—to the wise discretion of congress, the efforts of whose patriotic members should be to subserve the public good and to promote the general welfare.

The country now wants and expects industrial peace—relief from frequent tariff changes, which so seriously affect its business interests and reasonable permanency in officials. The Democratic party will not disappoint the people in these reasonable expectations and desires. The people will not tolerate any attempt at a restoration of the McKinley law. Let our Republican friends present the issue if they have the courage and recklessness so to do. We shall be content. It is a most significant fact that during the whole tariff debate in congress not a single Republican offered or pressed the McKinley bill as a substitute for the Democratic bill. I venture the prediction that not a single Republican statesman, aside from Mr. McKinley himself, will venture on the stump this year to propose or advocate the reinstatement of that discarded and discredited measure.

Fellow Democrats of the Empire State and of the country, the duty of the party is not harsh criticism of Democratic leaders or Democratic measures, not mutual recriminations nor conflicting counsels. It is a time for conciliation, for unity of purpose, for aggressive action. The common enemy now confronts us, seeking our political destruction. Bear in mind that the control of both legislative departments of the government is at stake in the coming elections. Interparty strife must now cease and our attacks be reserved for the foes who are already forming their lines of battle against us.

Democratic national and state administration must be alike loyally supported. The American people have not changed their sentiments, and the sound and true principles of true Democracy will still receive their approval because the cause of Democracy is the cause of the people.

The administration of President Cleveland has been clean handed, economical, painstaking and patriotic. The various departments of the national government have been conducted with success, and the Democratic party as a whole is entitled to the confidence of the masses of the people, whose interests it endeavors faithfully to serve. The administration of our state government under Democratic auspices has merited the public approval. We have given to the state wise laws, we have reformed abuses, we have raised official standards, we have enforced the laws vigorously and impartially, we have punished offenders whether found in our ranks or in the ranks of our adversaries, we have cared for the poor as well as the rich, we have aided the cause of labor, and we have contributed largely to the added greatness, prosperity and welfare of our grand old commonwealth.

Intrusted with the care of part of the legislature, we placed upon the statute books, in obedience to our pledges, a just and reasonable excise law, which our opponents are now proposing to disturb in case they are again returned to power. We destroyed root and branch, the further official intervention of Pinkertonism in labor difficulties and disputes. We enacted a uniform ballot law, under which no citizen can be disfranchised and whereby election frauds can be more easily detected and punished. We promptly caused an enumeration of the inhabitants to be taken, a constitutional duty long neglected by our opponents for partisan reasons, which was followed by an apportionment so fair and just as to be absolutely beyond criticism, an apportionment which quickly responds to public sentiment, an apportionment which properly gave us the assembly in 1892, when we carried the state by 40,000 majority, and which gave our adversaries both the senate and assembly when they inadvertently carried the state last fall by only 24,000 majority, a result which vindicated and complimented the absolute fairness and justness of our Democratic statute.

The people have not forgotten that under the Republican apportionment which existed in 1891, and which had existed for years, and which they arbitrarily refused to change, although we carried the state by 50,000 majority, yet the senate was close, and our opponents by fraud and technicalities sought to deprive us of that control to which we were rightfully entitled as the dominant party of the state.

We demand an apportionment which shall quickly and faithfully respond to public sentiment, whether it is for or against us, which shall fully recognize the equality of every citizen, so that an honest laboring man living in his humble home or a tenement house in a great city shall count as much as the occupant of a palace or the owners of thousands of acres in the country.

The Republican constitutional convention now in session, whose work is largely a miserable failure and was only "damned with faint praise" in the Republican platform of last week, has invented a scheme to deprive the great Democratic cities of the state of their just share of representation—a scheme which actually provides that an increase of population in such cities shall not furnish a basis for increased representation in the legislature. Never was there a greater political outrage deliberately contemplated and conceived to enable a desperate party to retain power against the will of the people.

This partisan and nefarious attack upon the political rights of our party should arouse every Democrat worthy of the name and lead him to do his utmost to secure the defeat of the whole work of that infamous convention, some of the members of which are under criminal prosecution for alleged bribery in receiving or giving votes for the apportionment article. It is a fitting commentary upon the men and work of that convention that a scheme conceived in iniquity to deprive a political party of its just rights should be based and supported upon bribery and corruption.

WILLIAM J. GAYNOR.

The Democratic party in this state stands, as it has ever stood, for that religious liberty which is guaranteed to all by our constitution, and I arraign the Republican party for its covert sympathy with and encouragement of that proscriptive spirit which attempts to set up a religious test as a qualification for official preferment in this land of freedom, and which is propagated by a certain secret political organization which deserves execration at the hands of every fair minded man, but which the Republican state convention last week distinctly refused, though earnestly urged, to condemn.

Our duty is plain, and I believe we shall perform it, and if perchance adherence to the right brings disaster we shall bravely accept our fate and take our place in private station by the side of our proscribed fellow citizens until reason, justice and true religious freedom shall again resume their sway, as surely they will.

The administration of Roswell P. Flower has been honest, bold and earnest in behalf of the best interests of the state. He retires from the high official position which he honored with the confidence and respect of his party, the esteem and good will of all classes and with the consciousness of duty well and faithfully performed. The record of his public service adds lustre to the Empire State, and I take pleasure in adding my testimony to the fact that he has made one of the best governors we ever had. His able associate, Lieutenant Governor William F. Sheehan, has endeared himself to the Democratic party, whose cause he has always zealously espoused. Young, vigorous and brilliant, other and higher honors await him in the future at the hands of a devoted constituency.

Fellow Democrats, let us not underestimate the dangers which confront us. We shall encounter the cohort of corruption in this campaign, led by audacious and unscrupulous leaders who are fighting not only for the control of New York, but for the control of the country. We are on the skirmish line of the great national battle of 1896, and the loss of New York may lose our party the presidency.

The whole country is breathlessly and hopefully watching our contest, and we must do our full duty. Sinking every prejudice, subordinating every selfish consideration, actuated only by high and patriotic motives, realizing how much is at stake to be won or lost, mindful of the grand traditions which belong to the party of Jefferson, Jackson and Tilden, knowing that a united Democracy in this state means an old fashioned Democratic triumph, let us buckle on our armor and march together, like the Macedonian phalanx of old, "with locked shields and measured tread," to the contest that awaits us, with courage, with resolution, with confidence, believing that our cause is just and that God and the right surely will give us the victory.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

For Governor,
DAVID BENNETT HILL.
For Lieutenant-Governor,
DANIEL N LOCKWOOD.
For Judge of the Court of Appeals,
WILLIAM J. GAYNOR.

In England, Saturday, wheat sold at the lowest price that has been reached in 200 years.

The Republicans of the First Ulster District, yesterday, nominated Capt. William S. Van Keuren, of Kingston, for Member of Assembly.

The citizen when he retires to the voting booth on election day with his ballots, his lead pencil and his conscience will have so many ballots to wrestle with that he will be likely to forget all about the rest of his outfit. There are already fourteen ballots in sight. The Democratic, Republican, Prohibition and People's parties have State tickets in the field. This makes four ballots. The Legislature has submitted two amendments. As the voters will be supplied with ballots both for and against, this increases the number to eight. The Constitutional Convention submitted its amendments in three parts which will add six more ballots—a total of fourteen.

The Republican County Convention will be held in Goshen, Oct. 9th, and the Congressional Convention in this city, Oct. 10th. The work of both conventions will be merely perfunctory,—the formal ratification of the nominations already determined on, ordained and decreed by Boss Ben Odell, Jr. Mr. Odell has made up his mind that he wants to go to Congress, and has ordered his Congressional Convention to nominate him. Assemblyman Cutler, of Rockland county, looked longingly at the Congressional nomination for a time, but the Boss looked toward Rockland county and frowned and Mr. Cutler's Congressional aspirations vanished like the mists of the morning, and in the three counties of Orange, Rockland and Sullivan, there is not a man to contest with Mr. Odell for the Congressional nomination.

The county ticket as fixed upon by the Boss is to be Selah E. Strong, of Blooming Grove, for Sheriff; William George Taggart, of Newburgh, for County Clerk, and John J. Beattie, of Warwick, for County Judge. Coroners Decker and Corwin are to be renominated, as is also Superintendent of the Poor Merritt, and the convention in its wisdom is to be allowed to select any one it pleases for Justice of Sessions. There are angry mutterings against boss rule heard from the score of candidates for Sheriff, who are to be turned down in order to carry through the above programme. They all had "claims," had rendered the party faithful service, and had helped the boss when he needed help, and they and their friends do not take kindly to being knocked out beforehand by a one man power. The big boss doesn't mind their mutterings. His machine will grind out the candidates that bear the stamp of his approval, and as for the disappointed, they can get in line when he cracks the party whip or make faces at the procession when it goes by. The Boss don't really care what they do.

The Largest Stock of Clothing Ever in Middletown!

We confidently make the above assertion and with it, this; that nowhere in Orange county can a purchaser secure equal value for the money expended. There is not a department of the business that is not stocked to supply any want of any person. This same completeness prevails in all grades and all prices. There are just as many varieties and styles, all correct, for the man who buys a five dollar suit as the man who buys a twenty-five dollar suit, but because we sell twenty-five dollar suits, let not the man that can't afford to pay more than five, stay away. His wants shall be not as carefully as the others. Let us show you the stock.

DROWNED IN THE CANAL

Thomas Kiernan Drowned at Port Orange in a Vain Attempt to Rescue His Grandson.

Mr. P. H McShane went to Port Orange, this morning, in answer to the following summons by telegraph:

"Father and Tommy Shields were drowned, this morning. Come at once. JENNIE."

The parties referred to are Thomas Kiernan, brother-in-law of Mr. McShane, aged about sixty-five years, and his grandson, Thomas Shields, of New York, aged eleven years.

A telephone message from the Port Jervis Gazette, this afternoon, states that it is supposed that while Mr. Kiernan and his grandson were driving cows to pasture along the canal, this morning, the boy must have fallen in, and that his grandfather lost his life in an unsuccessful effort to save the boy. Both bodies were discovered floating in the canal by members of the family who, alarmed at their long absence, went in search of them.

Coroner Harding, of Port Jervis, went to the scene of the accident, this morning, and will hold an inquest.

APPLE THIEVES CAUGHT.

Arrested Early This Morning With Bags of Apples from C. E. Crawford's Orchard.

About 3:30 o'clock this morning, Special Officers Skelton and Grant Wilson, while standing near the O. and W. round house at the North End, heard a dog barking furiously, up the track in the direction of Miller's old ice pond. The O. and W. has suffered considerably of late from coal thieves, who have "worked" the cars in the long switch at that place, and the officers thought that the dog might have been aroused by some one prowling about the cars, and therefore started up the track.

They had proceeded some distance when they saw two figures between them and the reflection from the pond, and called to the parties to stop. The early morning prowlers were recognized as John Talmadge and wife, and they were just leaving an orchard belonging to Mr. C. Emmet Crawford, having in their possession a wheelbarrow containing two full bags of fine russet apples, which they had gathered from the trees.

The pair were placed under arrest and brought to this city. Officer Skelton placed the nippers on his man and took a revolver from the fellow's hip pocket.

The arrest was made just outside the city limits and the prisoners were taken to Mechanicstown, this afternoon, where they pleaded guilty before Justice Dewsnap.

The man was sentenced to thirty days in Goshen jail, and the woman was allowed to go home to her thirteen-year-old daughter.

The couple are relatives of the gang of chicken thieves which were routed out of the Summit, last spring.

AN AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN FUED.

Nicholas, of Austria, Gets Six Months for Assaulting Bartok, of Hungary.

While patrolling his beat on East Main street, shortly after midnight, last night, Officer Vail was attracted by shouts of "murder" and "police," near the Erie crossing. Hurrying in the direction of the sound, he found a Hungarian, named Josef Bartok, who was bleeding profusely from wounds about the face and back of the head.

In response to the officer's questions as to how he came by his injuries, Bartok took the officers to a shanty in the rear of the Bush building, on Railroad avenue. Seven men were found sleeping in the shanty, one of whom George Nicholas, an Austrian, was pointed out by Bartok as his assailant.

Nicholas was arrested by the officer upon his acknowledgement that he had struck the man.

Bartok was taken to Dr. Nelson's house and six stitches were required to close a cut on his forehead.

When arraigned before Recorder Bradner, this morning, Nicholas pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault, preferred by Bartok. He claimed that he had only struck Bartok on the chin and that the other wounds were received at the hands of other parties, with whom Bartok had been quarrelling previous to the encounter with him. He also said that Bartok had attacked him with a chisel and he had struck him in self-defense.

Nicholas was given a trial, found guilty and sentenced to six months at hard labor in Albany Penitentiary.

Like a Snow Storm.

From the Paterson Press.

Persons coming to this city from New York, Sunday, must have thought they encountered a snow storm along the line of the salt meadows. But they didn't; it was merely a shower of the cattails' feather-like tips that grow on the meadows and are now dried out. They are about the size of snow flakes, and with the strong wind that blew during parts of Sunday made a strong resemblance to a stage snow storm.

Why Newburgh Firemen Want to Run to All Fires.

Newburgh firemen want the present system of responding to fire alarms, by which only those near the scene of a fire answer the first call, abolished and the old system of a general alarm established. The reason assigned for desiring the change is that when the companies do not run to fires there is no chance to impose fines and as a consequence the company treasuries are always empty.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is a peculiarly attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

HE MAY BE A LORD.

W. W. Astor Said to Be In Training For the British Peerage.

England continues to speak of William Waldorf Astor as an American, and America laughs at him as an imitation Englishman, but the truth is he is so much an Englishman that he is actually slated for the peerage. This may seem incredible in America, and yet it is a fact.

You are probably aware that Mr. Waldorf Astor has already become a British subject, and since he naturalized himself here he has enjoyed preferential election to that select circle of England's territorial magnates, that political holiest of the holies, the Carlton club. A further step in his upward flight was his nomination for the bench of the county of Middlesex, and he will be forthwith gazetted justice of the peace. That is an honor conferred by the lord high chancellor, acting for the crown, on the nomination of the lord lieutenant of the county. It entitles the holder to rank as justice of the quorum and is an inevitable preparatory step to higher rank. So far so good, but the half has not yet been told. He has been offered a baronetcy, but, not quite content with that, stipulates for the rank of a baron at least and will undoubtedly succeed.

Let me explain the difference in rank between a baronet and a baron. The former is the lowest order of hereditary rank and entitles the holder to be addressed as sir and his spouse as lady. It is in point of procedure rank 65 and permits the holder to sit in the house of commons, whereas that of baron entitles the holder to the rank, title and dignity of my lord and a seat in the house of lords. The style of address to the spouse of the holder of the title is still my lady. The rank of baron is the lowest of the five orders of peers and entitles the family of the holders to be known and addressed as honorable.

Lord Beaconsfield once said that there was "a certain moral force in a name and a dignity in a double barreled name." Mr. Astor is of the same opinion. He writes and styles himself Waldorf Astor. So in books of reference look under W and not under A. Mr. Waldorf Astor, however, is doing well and is appreciated here. He has always been in good hands, having from the first been chaperoned by that fine old English gentleman, that sturdy old courtier, Christopher Sykes.

Success in social life in England depends entirely on whose hands one gets in, and it is not always that the most written about are the most desirable. In the case of Mr. Waldorf Astor, his chaperon is not much known outside, but Christopher is a man of rare judgment and unsullied character, and, what is more, one of H. R. H.'s set, high in the favor of Queen Victoria and socially a power behind the throne. From the standpoint of practical politics the giving of social rank to Mr. Waldorf Astor is brilliant. It will tend to attract other multimillionaires, and when we get the Astors, Vanderbilts, Havemeyers, Rockefellers, Goulds and others our London season will blossom like a rose, and when the few remaining coronets of British aristocrats now in pawn be redeemed then the plebeian government of the United States may devise some means of social demarcation to keep her millionaires at home. Meanwhile a cordial welcome awaits them here.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

JOSS IS TO HAVE A NEW TEMPLE.

Surrounded by True Oriental Luxuries, the Deity Will Receive Due Homage.

"The Chinese citizens of Chicago will soon have the most magnificent josshouse in America," said Sam Moy to a reporter. "The entire furnishings for the place are now being designed and made in China, and we expect to open the house in about three months. Our people are habitually very quiet and not given to display or parade, but the dedication of the new josshouse will be attended with Chinese ceremonies and a parade far more elaborate than has ever been seen in Chicago and probably in the United States.

"The place will not be used as a josshouse alone, but also as the lodge or headquarters of the Chinese Freemasons of this city. There are many of these here, and the society is hundreds of years old in China. In addition to this it will serve as a place for the temporary entertainment of the people of our nation who make a few days' stop in the city. They will be housed and taken care of there."

Hip Lung, probably the wealthiest Celestial in Chicago and a relative of Sam Moy, explained that every piece of furnishings for the josshouse is being designed and made in China, and that the furniture will cost not less than $2,000. It will be made of ebony and other rare and costly oriental woods and will be elaborately carved and heavily decorated with gold.

The entire cost of the house will not be less than $7,000 or $8,000, and there will be nothing like it in America. It will have two large josshrooms, with the finest Chinese hangings, decorations and furnishings. Then there will be a large general parlor or reception room for entertaining the general guests and two private parlors for special use.

The location of the josshouse is not yet known.—Chicago Post.

Stratford-upon-Avon.

It is a pity that the Americans are not allowed to buy Stratford-upon-Avon and transport it to the States. They would at least treat it with the respect it deserves, which is more than we do. A short time ago the carved oak doors, which were placed at the north end of the church a century before Shakespeare was born, were temporarily removed, whereupon a utilitarian churchwarden sold them as lumber. The purchaser intends to build a pigsty with them. Those of the inhabitants who have heard of Shakespeare are indignant. And so what the purchaser bought at the price of a pigsty he is willing to resell at the price of historic relics.—Pall Mall Budget.

HARDENED BY CUSTOM.

The Divorced Woman Did Not Feel Comfortable About Her Children.

The conversation took place at a table in a Chicago restaurant within earshot of half a dozen persons, so it is to be presumed that it is not to be considered particularly sacred. The woman in the brown dress had evidently just come in from Denver. The one in black had met her at the depot. There was an animated description of the details of the journey; what time she started, how tired she got, what a terrible draft there was and so forth, interspersed with exclamations of sympathy from her hearer. Then she leaned forward and asked with more than ordinary interest:

"Have you seen George since?"

Her companion's face took on an expression that seemed to betoken resignation to all the evils the human race is destined to come in contact with.

"Yes, twice," she answered.

"And the children?"

"No, I haven't seen them."

"Nor his wife?"

"No, but they say she is quite pretty and sensible too."

The woman in brown sighed.

"I never heard a word of it until about a week ago. You can't imagine what a shock it gave me. He was married in December, wasn't he?"

"Yes, just a month after you were."

She sighed again.

"I'd like to see the children, but I'm afraid I couldn't bear it. It makes no difference how good George's new wife is, she won't be like an own mother to the poor little things. It's against all reason, you know that."

The woman in black admitted that the argument was indisputable.

"And I'd never feel right again," the speaker continued, apparently giving her conscience a few affectionate little pats and lulling it to rest. "When I left George, I tried to get the children for myself; but, you see, I had no idea what I should do. I knew it would be out of the question for me to try to struggle along with all three of them. I had faith enough in him to believe that he would do the right thing by them, even though my own life with him had been a perpetual martyrdom. If I had only known that I should marry again so soon and so well, nothing on earth could ever have compelled me to give them up. But, you see, I didn't know. So, all things considered, I guess I'd better go right on east. As I said, it would be a terrible trial to see them under the charge of somebody else and hear them call another woman 'mother.' It would break my heart."

The two women finished their lunch and went out. The baldheaded man at the end of the table dropped his fork with a clatter.

"Well," he said emphatically, "it's my opinion that those three children are better off with that new mother if she's anything short of a amazon than they would be with that woman. Heaven grant she won't be like their own mother."

The little audience looked as though it agreed with him individually and collectively.—Exchange.

A PLAY THAT WAS NOT WRITTEN.

Dramatic Plans of the Elder and Younger Dumas That Miscarried.

A curious and interesting bit of correspondence between Alexandre Dumas, father, and Alexandre Dumas, son, has been published in Paris by Georges Boyer, showing the two eminent Frenchmen had planned to write a theatrical piece together. Unfortunately the plan was not carried out, and the literary world was deprived maybe of a brilliant production. The letters read as follows:

PARIS, Oct. 7, 1865.

Alexandre Dumas, father, to Alexandre Dumas, son:

DEAR MASTER—After 30 years of struggle, defeats and victories, of failures and successes, I believe that, if not a great celebrity, I have at least the reputation of being a fruitful novelist. Only yesterday I received from Victor Hugo, in Guernsey, a letter full of encouragement and congratulations. I have the honor to belong to the Society of Authors and the Society of Dramatists. My modest claims to the first are: (Here follows a list of his most successful works.) Now, I beg, dear master, the honor of writing with you a drama in five acts, the ideas for which I shall discuss with you at our first meeting. The ideas are, I believe, in accordance with the tastes of the day. Will you agree?

ALEXANDRE DUMAS, Father.

The reply of the son was:

Alexandre Dumas, son, to Alexander Dumas, father:

DEAR MASTER—Your letter came to the correct address. The friendship, the love, the respect, the admiration which I have for my father make it my duty and pleasure to accept blindly your amiable offer. Be it so, therefore, we shall work together on some piece in five acts. To work with you, let me say, between us, will be no bad piece of business for me. ALEXANDRE DUMAS, Son.

Woman Inventor's Prayer to Congress.

A unique petition has turned up on the house side among some old papers. The memorialist is a woman, and she asks congress to appropriate $500 to enable her to perfect and place upon the market sundry inventions, which she lacks means to secure patents upon. She says: "I have asked assistance from most every one I thought most likely to aid. I began on the common line, went on to the thousanders, then to millionaires, governors and the president—not the present president—but I asked Brother Arthur. They all paid as deaf an ear to it as the Alps would to the chirp of a snowbird." She asks congress to "look into the patent office treasury and see if you can find an idle $500 that is doing no one any good. Bring it out and let me use it for a season. Money, like trees, yields more by being stirred about the roots."—Washington Post.

Von Bulow's Independence.

So far as the audience was concerned, Von Bulow always made a point of doing exactly as he pleased. On one occasion when a Leipzic audience insisted on recalling him in spite of his repeated refusal to play again he came forward and said, "If you do not stop this applause, I will play all Bach's 48 preludes and fugues from beginning to end."—San Francisco Argonaut.

HOW HE GOT STARTED

A MERCHANT TELLS OF HIS WINNING BY A SHOW OF HONESTY.

After Many Failures In Attempts to "Catch on," He Worked a Little Scheme on the Business Man Who Called Him "a Sterling, Honest Fellow."

"You wish to know how I got my start in Chicago, eh? Well, I don't mind telling you about it now, although you may not indorse the means I adopted."

Here the merchant prince laughed heartily, withdrawing his cigar for the purpose. After a moment or two he resumed:

"I had come here from the country, a gawky farmer boy, ignorant of the ways of the world and disposed to regard every city chap as a sharper. Before leaving home I had a settlement with my guardian, who turned over to me $300 in cash, all the possessions I had in the world.

"The distress of the panic of 1857 had not passed, and things were awfully dull here. After securing a modest boarding house I applied myself with diligence to the seeking of employment, in the meantime assiduously studying bookkeeping every evening. The 21 years of my life had been spent upon the farm, and I was utterly ignorant of all business methods. Hence I sought humble work, being willing to begin at the lowest rung of the ladder. But somehow I didn't catch on. I must have been what is vulgarly called an 'ornery' chap—uncouth in speech, vulgar in manner and easily abashed. Still I persevered, offering myself as porter, coachman, day laborer, gardener, helper in grocery stores—in short, any kind of work that demanded muscle without too much experience. Once in awhile I got a job of sawing wood, cutting grass and tending garden, but I spent far more than I earned, although I lived very economically. Month after month passed in this way until nearly one-half of my capital was exhausted.

"My necessities led me to much cogitation, and having made rapid progress in my study of bookkeeping as well as in knowledge of good English I finally concluded to aspire to something higher. A prerequisite to this step was the doffing of my old jeans suit, which had become decidedly seedy. The tailor's bill made a big inroad upon my diminishing capital, and the thought of it set my teeth on edge. Out I went day after day among the merchants, offering my services as a bookkeeper, accountant, shipping clerk or salesman, but I found no takers. The market was suffering from an oversupply of the commodity, and the demand was nil.

"Finally I decided that something had to be done. I could not and would not be penniless in a big city. I am naturally of a sanguine temperament, but six months of enforced idleness to one who loves work are enough to becloud the sunniest temper. But I see you are getting impatient. A change did finally come. One day Mr. Davis, the head of the big dry goods store on Lake street, was surprised out of his usual equanimity by the rushing in of an excited individual, myself, holding in his hand a small bundle and saying brokenly:

"'I have found, sir, a package of money—a hundred dollars, I think. I am a stranger in the city and wish you to keep it until you find the owner.'

"When he found breath, Mr. Davis, who recalled me as one who had applied to him more than once for employment, demurred, insisting that I should leave it in the hands of the police.

"'That will not do, sir. I know your reputation and can confidently leave the sum with you. I am desperately poor and unemployed, and any imputation upon my honor would kill me. My only wish is that this money may reach its owner. You will be sure to find him.'

"Mr. Davis became interested.

"'Is there any way of identifying him—any name or address in the package?'

"'I think not, sir,' I replied, 'but the bills, as you will see, are done up in a peculiar red cloth—debiege I think it is called—and if you would merely advertise the fact that a sum of money had been found, and required the applicant to name the amount and the envelope covering it, you could not possibly mistake.'

"My importunity finally overcame his objections, and he took my address, and after pronouncing me a 'sterling honest fellow,' bade me come around in the morning.

"Well, that was my start in life. Mr. Davis greeted me when I returned in the morning most effusively.

"'I've been thinking over that matter and confess that I admire your honesty. There's no reason in the world why you shouldn't have kept that money. Many men who are far better off than you would have done so.'

"He ended by offering me a place behind one of the counters at $6 a week, and five years later I was his partner.

"Oh, the money! A number of parties answered the advertisement, but they couldn't prove up, you see, for the best of all reasons. The money was my own, and Mr. Davis finally returned it to me. I ran not the slightest risk and was satisfied that the act would bring me under the favorable notice of Mr. Davis.

"Yes, there was deception in it, and I am not saying that it was commendable. But I did no one an injury, and it was the groundwork of my present comfortable fortune. Still I would not advise any other young man to go and do likewise."—Chicago Tribune.

Brignoli's Weak Point.

Brignoli, the tenor, was sensitive about his age. A young lady once said to him in admiration, "Signor Brignoli, I have known you ever since I was a little girl." He turned around in a fury and shouted, "Yes, and I have known you ever since I was a little boy!"—Exchange.

A COSTLY PIECE OF FOLLY.

What It Cost to Discontinue Proceedings in the New Street Opening Case.

Some little time since, it will be remembered that the Common Council passed a resolution directing the City Attorney to procure an order from the Court for the discontinuance of the proceedings in the matter of laying out and opening a new street, to run from East Main street near the Erie crossing to Sprague avenue, near the railroad bridges.

The matter was brought up before Judge Beattie at a special term held in the Corporation Rooms, in this city, this morning. City Attorney J. L. Wiggins presented the application which was granted by the Judge upon the payment by the city of the Commissioners' fees, surveyor's fees, stenographer's fees and the counsel fees for the said Commission amounting to the sum of $380.

Messrs. William Vanamee, Daniel Finn, A. V. N. Powelson, H. W. Wiggins and Luther R. Marsh, who appeared in behalf of various persons who were interested in the awards or assessments that might be made by the Commission, were each allowed $100 as counsel fees.

The total cost to the city, therefore, for this piece of municipal folly is about $880. For this the city has absolutely nothing to show. The proposed street would have been a great public convenience but that didn't count, after last spring's election. Mr. Stansbury was opposed to the street. This was his right. Mayor Stansbury was also opposed to the street and used his official power to kill the scheme. This was not right. Public office is not a private snap.

SPECIAL ENGAGEMENT.

Bronson Howard's Great Success, "Young Mrs. Winthrop," Coming Soon.

Bronson Howard's great comedy, "Young Mrs. Winthrop," has been secured by Manager Corey, of the Casino, for a special engagement, next Saturday evening. The play was an immense success in New York, running for over two years at the Madison Square Theatre to immense business. It was taken off the New York boards for a tour of the country which it made with distinct success. It has been given a most elaborate production, this season, with what is considered by the critics an ideal company. Among the well known players, who will be seen in the cast are: Collin Kemper, of Augustin Daly's New York and London companies; Robert McWade, the veteran actor, whose Rip VanWinkle is one of the classics of the American stage; Errol Dunbar, of the Boston Museum Company; William Hunt and Miss Lansing Rowan, who scored such an immense success in the original Dr. Bill Company, and as leading lady with Chas. Dickson; Una Abell, late of the Lyceum Theatre stock company and for three years leading lady with the eminent actress Mlle. Rhea; Lillian Schovelin, of the Modjeska combination, and Mrs. Annie Mortimer, widow of the late Gus Mortimer, and an actress of rare attainments.

Suing Ex Game Protector Walley—High Prices for Buckwheat Flour—Busy Acid Factories—Farming on a Big Scale—Why He Killed Himself—Liberty and Rockland—Absurdities of Our Fish Laws.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—George Kothe, of Spring Brook, has commenced an action in the Supreme Court against Seth Walley for false arrest in a fish case. Some time in June last, it seems, Walley was prowling about the brook, and coming across a set line baited with a small trout he swore out a warrant for Kothe before Squire A. P. Cook, and when the case was called did not put in an appearance. Walley was after Kothe about that time in hopes that he would settle, but arrest only aroused Kothe's ire, or "got his Dutch up," hence the action above stated.

—Buckwheat flour is now selling at $3 a hundred pounds. This is higher than usual, and at the present prices for wheat flour is way up. The crop was a poor one in Sullivan county owing to the drouth that struck it about the time it was in blossom and the grain forming. Throughout the upper Midland counties it was an average crop.

—The acid factories are all running again full blast. The tariff scare did not last long in their case. As all of these works are short of wood, this means that business will be lively in the acid producing section for some time to come, providing they are operated for any considerable length of time.

—Josiah Shull, of Little Falls, aged seventy-two years, is dead. The deceased was very active in the dairy interests of the State. He will be remembered by Orange county people as being present at the State Dairy Convention held in Middletown several years ago.

—A farmer named Newman, of near Little Falls, recently cut his throat because he had been fined one hundred dollars for watering his milk. It is to be deplored that the man should have been so rash. He might have laid it to the hired man, or he could have claimed that the water overflowed and ran into the milk cans. It is really too bad when a farmer has to shuffle off this mortal coil just because his milk is too thin. A great many of our late suicides have been charged up against Col. Ingersoll, but this one ought not to be laid against the doughty Colonel, for, if I remember rightly, he did not claim that watering milk would justify suicide.

—Liberty is the largest town on the main line of the O. and W. between Middletown and Walton, and is noted far and wide as a summer resort. Rockland is the next town west of it in Sullivan county, and in the eyes of the average Liberty man is reckoned as a suburb of his village. Now let us see where we are at. The town of Liberty has three stations, Liberty Falls, Liberty and Parksville, and the entire receipts at these three stations for tickets, freight forwarded, and milk, for the year ending June 30, 1894, were $42,255.53, while for the same period the same business of the only two stations in the town of Rockland, Livingston Manor and Rockland foots up $55,090 13 All this goes to show the excellent judgment of the late H. R. Low, of your city, when he invested heavily in Rockland's wild lands and then devoted all his energies to getting the Midland through. It will be seen that big Liberty isn't in it in railroad business, when compared with its rocky, forest covered cousin on the West.

—A farmer, named Newton, and the wife of his hired man were both ground to a pulp by a D. L. and W. train, at Norwich, Friday morning. Those who saw it say it was the most horrible sight they ever witnessed. They were on their way home from the creamery, where they had been to deliver milk.

—Arthur Leighton, the Trout Brook acid manufacturer, will, if he keeps on, soon be the most extensive farmer in the State. There is hardly any limit to the land he controls, or can purchase if he chooses. His methods are different from most of the acid men, as he has all the stumps cut low at the time the wood is cut, so as to leave the land in good shape for farming. He has raised the past season 1 000 bushels of buckwheat, and 2,000 bushels of oats. His acid factory and farm are located three miles south of Cook's Falls, on the Ontario and Western.

—In the early summer, Wm. Slater, who resides on the headwaters of the Beaverkill, had H. R. Wright arrested for illegal fishing. The case has dragged its weary length along and several juries have been drawn, until the present panel of twelve men, good and true, exhausts the jury box, as the town, Hardenburgh, is very thinly settled. Hon. J. M. Maybee, of Livingston Manor, conducted the prosecution, and the editor of the Margaretville Utilitarian, the defense. The case will be again tried on the 10th inst. If matters keep on the way they have been going for the past year, it will not be safe to cast a line in any of the streams of the State. It costs about $75,000 a year of State money to keep the fish interests up; and anywhere from $150,000 to $200,000 a year to pay fines, legal expenses and lawyer's fees. Under the present method of propogation and protection it costs one dollar a pound to get trout large enough to take the hook, saying nothing about the expense of catching them. Strangers who come up here for a little fun at fishing, and who for the next six months have to defend themselves in court, become disgusted and never return. It is needless to try to build up this section with the help of the city people, and then begin to ill treat them as soon as they cast a line in our streams. Away with such nonsense. That our fish need protecting no one can doubt. The great aim of the average game warden seems to be to pile on to some one that he thinks will settle, while all about him are a lot of shiftless, worthless fellows, who make a living at fishing and are not particular as to the size of the fish they catch; but, as there is nothing in them for the protector to squeeze out, they are allowed to go free.
